Item 7.01 Regulation FD Disclosure.

On October 21, 2011, Fabrinet announced that production at its two Thailand manufacturing facilities, both located in Pathum Thani, Thailand, is currently suspended due to the logistics and infrastructure disruption resulting from severe flooding near the company’s production facilities. While the flood waters have not to date breached the company’s production facilities in Thailand, the flooding has materially impacted local transportation and utilities and has affected both arterial and access roads connected to Fabrinet’s factories and some employee residences. Therefore, the company has decided to suspend production temporarily. Conditions with the continued flooding are evolving quickly, and the extent of the impact cannot yet be determined.

This information shall not be deemed “filed” for purposes of Section 18 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the “Exchange Act”), or incorporated by reference in any filing under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, or the Exchange Act, except as shall be expressly set forth by specific reference in such a filing.

“Safe Harbor” Statement Under U.S. Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995

This disclosure contains forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. These statements include all of Fabrinet’s statements that the flood waters have not directly breached its production facilities and its statements regarding the extent of the impact of continued flooding. These forward-looking statements involve risks and uncertainties. Actual results could vary materially from these forward-looking statements. Important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from those in the forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to: the flooding situation in Thailand could continue for an extended period of time and could even worsen; Fabrinet may be required to suspend operations at its Thailand facilities for an extended period of time; customers could scale back or cancel their orders in light of perceived or real production constraints; even if the flooding subsides, the extent of damage to Thai roads and infrastructure could continue to have a material impact on Fabrinet’s logistics and supply chain; if the flooding continues for an extended period of time, the Thai government could order a state of emergency, which could constrain Fabrinet’s operations in Thailand, and other important factors as described in Fabrinet reports and documents filed from time to time with the Securities and Exchange Commission, including the factors described under the sections captioned “Risk Factors” in the company’s annual report on Form 10-K, filed on August 31, 2011. Fabrinet disclaims any obligation to update information contained in these forward-looking statements whether as a result of new information, future events, or otherwise.

Pursuant to the requirements of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, the registrant has duly caused this report to be signed on its behalf by the undersigned hereunto duly authorized.
